

Children at Different Stages of Cognitive Development

4. Three “computer children” are asked to perform various tasks of conservation and seriation (arranging objects in order). Identify each child’s stage of development and explain how the child’s performance characterizes that stage.

The 4-year-old is at the _____ stage of development.

The characteristics of her developmental stage are:

The 7-year-old is at the _____ stage of development.

The characteristics of his developmental stage are:

The 13-year-old is at the _____ stage of development.

The characteristics of her developmental stage are: